

Arctic Audubon presents...

What is a land trust, and what is it doing in Fairbanks?

A Presentation by
Martha Raynolds

Monday, May 7th, 2018
7:00 pm

Noel Wien Library Auditorium

The Interior Alaska Land Trust was formed in 1995. Martha Raynolds, a founding board member, will describe what a land trust is, how it operates, and how our local land trust fits into our conservation community. She'll also describe some of the parcels that the Land Trust has conserved in the Fairbanks area.

Martha Raynolds is a plant ecologist who works at the University of Alaska Fairbanks. She is one of the founding board members of the Interior Alaska Land Trust, and has been a board member since 1995.

